Dear Katrina,

We're investigating your Equifax credit report dispute:

- During the investigation, we'll review the information you provided and, if needed, contact the source of your credit information to verify its accuracy.
- We'll notify you within about 30 days when the results are available.
- Depending on the results, you may see updates in your Equifax credit report.

You can view the status of your dispute in your Dispute Center at any time.

Disputing with other credit bureaus

You won't always find the same information in your credit reports at each of the three nationwide credit bureaus, so you may want to check your credit reports from TransUnion® and Experian® as well. If you find inaccurate or incomplete information, you can file disputes with TransUnion® and Experian® separately.
